A record crowd of over 100 alumni, spouses, parents, guests, and new undergraduate DUs attended this year's fabulous Homecoming Weekend.

The traditional reception was held after the football game and beautifully catered by Pierce's 1894 Restaurant under the direction of Joe Pierce '75. The DU recolonization ceremony followed the reception. Most alumni and parents stayed for the ceremony, so the Great Hall was packed. The ceremony marked a momentous occasion in the 134-year history of the Delta Upsilon Fraternity at Cornell University. It was moving and inspiring.

The names of many attendees and our new DUs are included in this issue. We were fortunate that so many of our star DU football players from over the decades returned to Cornell to be recognized at half-time (all-Ivy and Cornell hall of fame members). With six varsity football players currently in DU and strong undergraduate leaders in the chapter, we were blessed by the presence of several parents and family members.

Tony Murray '60 welcomed the guests and recognized key alumni and visitors. The recolonization ceremony was conducted by Tony, Fred Harwood '59, and Tony Cashen '57. Gage Stille '05 and Adam Star '04, DU brothers from Georgia Tech and Indiana, assisted along with two representatives from DU international headquarters. Tony Cashen delivered an eloquent and moving charge, which is printed in this issue of the Noose (page two). Tony was able to capture the essence of what is happening at DU and bring us all together with a unified vision for DU's future.

Our 25 new DUs (plus Gage and Adam) are now official members of the Cornell DU colony and will be initiated on December 6, 2003, when DU's charter is reinstated. They are currently going through a challenging

Charge To New Members

Recolonization ceremony charge delivered to new members by Tony Cashen '57

This is the point in the recolonization ceremony where it is customary to deliver the so-called "charge"...the statement of purpose describing and inspiring new members about the relevance and importance of membership in Delta Upsilon.

However, this is not the ordinary charge, following the ordinary new member training program, following the ordinary recruitment process. This is the extraordinary charge, following the extraordinary new member training program, following the extraordinary recruitment process.

But, that's okay. As some of you have already heard me describe before, we are like a venture capital start-up...we are entrepreneurs visioning, investing in, and creating a new enterprise, a new fraternity based upon ideas and ideals that we share with one another and will use to create the new DU.

I use the word entrepreneur to describe what we are doing together. We alums had a vision of what a renewed DU could be. DU is a 134-year-old institution on the Cornell campus, established in 1869, four years after the founding of the university in 1865. Cornell DU was the 18th chapter to join DU after its founding in 1834 at Williams College as the first "nonsecret" fraternal society.

Our alumni vision for a new DU is partially based upon DU's founding principles: THE PROMOTION OF FRIENDSHIP; THE DEVELOPMENT OF CHARACTER; THE DIFFUSION OF LIBERAL CULTURE; and THE ADVANCEMENT OF JUSTICE.

But it has also been further shaped into a plan to reflect current ideals we want as part of our operating principles. Those new elements include a commitment to:

- No hazing whatsoever in our new member training;
- Diversity of membership in our brotherhood;
- Commitment to excellence in scholarship; and
- Programs in philanthropy, community service, and leadership.

Last April we described this vision to you, our 15 initial core founding new members. You in turn have described it this fall to additional new member prospects, and seven of them have become additional founding new members today.

In entrepreneurial terms, we, the alumni, are investors and partners in this new enterprise. You, as new members, are the management and partners in the new enterprise. Together, as owner/investors, we will share in the progress and benefits of this new enterprise.

Last week, I had the opportunity to attend the inauguration of Cornell's new president, Jeffrey Lehman. In his inaugural speech, he talked about a new beginning for Cornell. He also talked about two defining characteristics of Cornell and its history. He used the words REVOLUTIONARY and BELOVED in describing Cornell.

He talked about Cornell's founding as REVOLUTIONARY. It was in fact a revolution... the first truly American university... "a university where any student could find instruction in any study"... a very egalitarian characteristic and a contrast to other rather elitist early universities.

He also described Cornell as BELOVED. Beloved, because the diverse experiences provided Cornell students during their four years on campus enrich them in a way that affects them for the rest of their lives and leaves them with fond memories, making Cornell beloved.

Likewise, we are being REVOLUTIONARY in creating a new DU. And it will become BELOVED to all of us as we succeed in its creation.

I urge all of you to think about these ideals, purposes, and characteristics that will make us successful and different as a new DU... and as a REVOLUTIONARY new kind of fraternity at Cornell.

And, as we go forward, I guarantee you that you will look back on the close friendships you establish with your DU brothers and the enjoyment and fun you share with them... and your DU will, indeed, become BELOVED.

Undergrads Work Hard To Recolonize DU

The semester started a little earlier than normal for us here at Delta Upsilon this fall. Amid numerous work projects and bonding activities, our group of 15 recolonizers gathered at the house before the start of classes to get the house up and running and also take part in an informal workshop on fraternity affairs run by several of the Cornell Chapter's esteemed alumni. The house was presented to us in magnificent condition with only a few odd jobs around to have it back to its full potential. We took part in vacuuming, dusting, painting, landscaping, and moving furniture all over the house to have it in the best condition possible to start the semester.

During meals and at night we listened intently to Tony Murray, Tony Cashen, Fred Harwood, and several others, trying to absorb all of the information we would have to know to handle the house on our own. We are still learning to this day as this is all new to most of us, but we are slowly but surely getting the hang of it. We set up an informal structure made up of several committees including chapter management, social activities, philanthropy, technology, and recruitment. We appointed a chair for each committee, with the group of chairs making up the executive house committee. This provided us with enough of a backbone of leadership to get us started and also allowed us to get to know each other before electing official officers.

While our recolonization ceremony on Homecoming Weekend seemed distant enough, we had to begin the difficult task of organizing a fall rush to bring more members into our core group. If you have had a chance to meet even a few of those members that we obtained over the last two months, I think you would agree with all of us here that it was a rousing success. Eleven new members decided to join Delta Upsilon, bringing our total up to 27 with spring rush on the way. Our mission to become one of the top fraternities here at Cornell has spread across campus, and the momentum is building as we speak.

At this point, we have ended our fall rush period and are now heading into our self-imposed new member program. We are forced to administer this to ourselves in a way, as only two men, Gage Stille and Adam Star, are truly DU brothers at the present time. They have taken the lead in organizing and administering the new member program and are doing an outstanding job. Events have and will include a night all together on the sleeping porch, new member Olympics in the downstairs all-purpose room, and a final weekend scavenger hunt before initiation on December 6, 2003. During the week we have been participating in DU history study sessions, which include study of The Cornerstone and tests from the previous week's material. To ensure that all of these events are taken seriously, an accountability system has been put in place with "strikes" being given for lateness, disruption, disrespect, etc. Should a member receive three "strikes" before initiation, he will be forced to wait until the spring to go through the new member program again and then potentially become a brother.

As you can see, there is a tremendous amount of action taking place at the house this semester as we get the ball rolling. The ball is picking up speed, and with every day that goes by here it seems to be moving faster and faster, with no insurmountable obstacles in its way.

Midwest DUs Launch A New Tradition

Doug Porter '78 organized and hosted a DU alumni dinner in Chicago on October 7, 2003, at Harry Carey's restaurant in Rosemont, Illinois.

On the same night that the Cubs were playing Atlanta at Wrigley Field, we still had a great turnout of DU brothers from three eras: early '60s, late '70s, and late '80s.

The group included Charlie Wachs '64, John Palmer '64, Dave Hamman '65, John Neff '77 (Milwaukee), Steve George '78 (Louisville), Stu Grote '78 (Lansing, Kansas), Doug Porter '78, Rick George '86, Dan Gilroy '86, Ivan Matsunaga '86, Mike Tsimoris '87, and Steve Lutz '89. Dave Schumacher, DU Education Foundation executive director, also joined us.

Doug, Tony Cashen, and Fred Harwood gave presentations. The group was extremely interested in all the details—the condition of the house, how we recruited our new DUs, the current Greek environment at Cornell, and our vision for DU's future. While the DU recolonization story has been regularly communicated in The Alumni Noose and in letters from Tony Murray, we learned that nothing beats face-to-face contact to get the DU message across and to emphasize the role of and need for alumni support.

Everyone actively participated, as you can see from the pictures. The night went on and on as you would expect when DUs gather together.

Two of the alumni pledged $10,000 on the spot after dinner and became leadership contributors to DU. We are hopeful that everyone who attended will contribute to the DU capital campaign in some way.

The DU Midwest dinner is going to become an annual event. Dan Gilroy has volunteered to be the Chicago area contact for Cornell DUs. Dan noted that "we have a very active group of DUs in the Chicago area, and we'd like to welcome guys back if they have been out of touch recently." You can reach Dan at 630/250-4295.

We need to hold more dialogues with DU alumni around the country at regional dinners or perhaps conference calls class by class. If you want to organize an event for your affinity group, let us know, and the alumni association will provide whatever assistance you need.

(non-hazing) new member program. These new brothers are committed to conducting a successful freshman recruitment in January in order to fill 6 South Avenue to capacity in 2004-2005. They will not, however, sacrifice quality for quantity.

At the end of the ceremony, Rick Furbush '71 (all-Ivy quarterback during the Ed Marinaro era, past class president, and current president of the Cornell Club of the Suncoast) expressed his enthusiasm. "This is just great. What a thrill to see DU so strong again. Meeting these new brothers brings back all my wonderful memories."

Nels Schaenen '50 said, "Kudos all around, in particular for Cashen, Murray, and Harwood. They really made it happen. We are at least one year ahead of the typical recolonization. I couldn't be more pleased."

Earl Blanks, MBA '74 and father of junior football stars Marcus and David Blanks, noted, "I like what I'm seeing at DU. Keep the bar set high and encourage these young men to strive for excellence."

We have included comments from Leigh Schmalz '61, Fred Devlin '67, and Tim Marchell '82 in sidebars. As you can tell from these comments, everyone was enthralled by the magical feelings of this truly memorable event in DU's proud history.

Wow! DU is back big time. Our undergraduates have told us that DU's excellent reputation on campus has contributed significantly to their success in recruitment. The tradition continues.

Please continue to support DU with your encouragement, mentoring, and financial contributions. DU will become a shining star at Cornell...as long as we stay engaged, dedicated, and keep our eye on the ball.

Tim Marchell '82: "The recolonization ceremony during Homecoming was a remarkable moment in the history of the chapter. I've never been more proud to be a DU than when I watched each of those impressive young men step forward in the presence of friends, family, and alumni. Tony Cashen, Tony Murray, Fred Harwood, and other alumni leaders deserve a great deal of credit for rebuilding the undergraduate membership, and doing so on new terms. Our commitment to diversity and implementing a pro-brotherhood, non-secret, non-hazing new member process will serve as a model for other fraternities on campus. I'm working with other chapters that are trying to accomplish these goals, and DU is showing them the way."

Fred Devlin '67: "Regarding the DU recolonization, I cannot begin to tell you how impressed I am with the incredible effort and success you have achieved. I cannot recall a moment when I have felt more proud to be a brother of DU than last Saturday. The experience of being in our house at Homecoming was one of the most important I have ever had as a DU. It truly represented to me a reclaiming of the spirit and brotherhood of our great fraternity. As we all know, there were many times when we thought we would never see this again. You guys and the rest of the committee have made it possible. I recall, at one point, looking across the Great Hall and seeing Doug Kleiber '69 leaning against one of the pillars, and it was 1967 all over again—and we know how those years felt. It was like nothing had changed."

"While I haven't met all the new members, what I did see on Saturday was very impressive. Let's keep this spirit alive and continue to grow it. I hope to make it to initiation on December 6, and I hope we can find a way to convey to the rest of the brotherhood (and the rest of the university as well) what an incredible thing is happening at DU."

"There is no way to express my thanks to you and the rest of the group for this amazing effort. Hope to see you all soon."

DU alumni and family attendees

Alumni: Nels Schaenen '50, Don Jaeckel '56, Rod Beckwith '57, Tony Cashen '57, Fred Harwood '59, Tony Murray '60, Leigh Schmalz '61, Bruno LaRocca '64, Marty Sponaugle '66, Bill Wilson '66, Fred Devlin '67, Bob Verna '68, Bill Shaw '69, Doug Kleiber '69, Rick Furbish '71, Tim Battaglia '72, Mike Phillips '74, Mark Kamon '75, Rob Ainslie '78, Dan Leonard '79, Tim Marchell '82, Steve Jablonski '85, Michael Wagner '86, Jay Bloedorn '91, Doug Gamble '91, Peter Vogel '92, Kevin Marcus '92, Rob Pickup '93, Chris Zingo '94, Greg Bloedorn '96. Families: David and Marcus Blanks family, Chris Eckstein parents, Tim Hanley family, Greg Moore family, Patrick Potts family, Alexandra Cox-Cuzzi '06 (daughter of Frank Cuzzi '61).

Leigh Schmalz '61: "Truly an outstanding reception and installation ceremony for the new DUs at Homecoming Weekend. The new brothers I had the pleasure to spend time with all appear to respect the tradition and heritage of DU and desire to build on the foundation you set for them. The house looked great and in as good condition as I have ever seen!"

"The entire DU alumni, current brotherhood, and future brothers owe you three a great deal of gratitude and thanks for the many hours spent to make the reorganization of DU at Cornell a smashing success. Tony Cashen's brilliant idea to build a pledge class starting last spring has already paid great dividends and will allow DU to be on the map and very competitive during the January rush."

"Obviously there are many other alumni who have dedicated their time and financial support, but without your efforts, the success that has been achieved would not have happened! You three have made me proud to be a part of the 'team' to have DU once again rise to the top of the Cornell fraternity scene!"

The Alumni Suite Is Back And Beautiful

A DU tradition at 6 South Avenue has been restored. The alumni suite is now open in the same location where the great Bert Antell '28 spent so many weekends during the '50s, '60s, and '70s.

Some time back the old alumni suite had been converted for use by undergraduates and designated as the president's room. As part of the renovation of the past two years, it has now been restored and fully equipped for the most discerning alumnus (and spouse). It has many of the amenities of a nice hotel room including TV, clock radio, bathroom fixtures, towels, as well as a separate bedroom and sitting room. Because there is no maid service, you will have to bring your own bed linens, but there are two pillows and a heavy bedspread quilt for those cold Ithaca nights.

In August, Frank Cuzzi '61 and his wife, Elise Cox, were our first guests and thoroughly enjoyed the experience, particularly meeting the new brothers, some of whom were friends of Alexandra '06 (Kappa Kappa Gamma). They were really impressed with the condition of the house.

Fred Harwood '59 and Nancy stayed in the suite in late September on a trip back to New Hampshire from Fred's high school reunion in Toronto. Nancy enjoyed being in the house so much that she told Fred to cancel their Homecoming hotel reservations so they could stay at DU again. She has also enjoyed meeting the new DUs. "What a great group of young men, and it's wonderful to hear the Great Hall piano being played so well by Oliver, Erik, and Brian," according to Nancy. "With the new DUs keeping the house in such immaculate condition, it's a pleasure to stay at DU."

A Word From The Alumni President

Thanks For Your Support

Dear Brothers,

I want to thank everyone—especially all the alumni—who attended our Homecoming reception and recolonization ceremony on October 25. Your presence showed our alumni support for Cornell DU and the new DUs who will be initiated on Saturday, December 6. These 25 young men and the two transfer DUs are reestablishing DU as a top house on campus.

Alumni, especially those in the area, are invited to attend the 5:00 p.m. initiation of our new members and the reinstatement of the chapter's charter. Please e-mail or call me if you can make it and want more information.

The next key DU objective is recruiting 25 DU-quality freshmen in January. The undergraduates and alumni are actively working on the overall January recruitment plan and identification of specific candidates. If your son is at Cornell and interested in learning more about DU, please e-mail his name and any pertinent information about him to fharwood@comcast.net. If you know a freshman who would be a good candidate for DU, please let Fred Harwood know.

Your financial support of our capital campaign is essential to continue our current success! As you know from previous letters and the Noose, an additional $250,000 of leadership pledges of a minimum $10,000 to be paid over a four-year period is still needed to reach $650,000, which is 50 percent of our $1.3 million goal. Once we reach $650,000, the all-member solicitation will begin. Please contact Tony Cashen (518/392-0077; acashen@earthlink.net) if you will make such a leadership contribution to support Cornell DU.

Also, let us know if you think having a DU dinner in your area similar to the one in Chicago run by Doug Porter is a good idea. It provides a good time for DUs to get together, get caught up on 6 South Avenue happenings, and hear firsthand the importance of alumni support of our capi-

Alumni Spotlight To Return In Next Issue

We will continue our series about DU alumni in the next issue. You may remember our spring 2003 interview with Doug Porter '78. We will feature Peter Gogolak '64 next with an interview by one of our newly initiated DU brothers and include a reprint of the wonderful article about Pete in the recent book, The 100 Most Notable Cornellians.

Thanks for all your encouragement and past financial support of our annual Roll Calls. We wouldn't have been so successful with our house renovations and recolonization over these last two years without them.
